Frontend Architect with 10+ years building production web applications, leading frontend teams up to nine engineers, and shipping the architectural patterns and performance wins that compound for years. Comfortable owning the full architecture from greenfield setup through migrations and developer-experience overhauls — release cycles cut from weeks to days, monorepos that ship one TypeScript codebase across iOS, Android, and web, page weight reduced by two-thirds where it counted. Happiest where domain complexity meets frontend craft.
